Dear Mr. Aaron Bell,

I wanted to write and thank you once again for your presentation on Thursday. Your ability to tell a story, and keep the children interested, was amazing. I was particularly impressed at how much information my students extracted and retained from listening to you tales. It was definitely a great way for our Grade Sixes to start off the First Nations Unit.

When speaking with my students afterwards, they were all extremely appreciative of the event. Many of them stated they couldn't wait to learn more about the First Nations people. A lot of them were even talking about building their own 'stick and bone' toy. For myself, as a teacher, it was great to have someone with a true understanding of the First Nations culture come in and answer all of the questions they had. The information and experience they left with will definitely help us get through the unit together, with ease.

Thank you again for a truly memorable experience. I hope to see you again next year.

Sincerely,
Mr. Morris
and the Grade Sixes
